

CIHR IRSC

Canadian Institutes of Health Research Instituts de recherche en santé du Canada

CIHR IDP Learning Objectives Worksheet

Name:

As determined in sections 1 and 2 of your IDP, acquiring relevant skills is important in order to successfully pursue your career(s) of choice. Section 3 focuses on goals, which are key in establishing a path for your skills development.

Using this worksheet, you can concisely define how you will develop each skill, which actions you will use to demonstrate your proficiency, and what criteria will be used to measure your success. Finally, you will determine who will evaluate your performance; this is to ensure that at each milestone you take the time to acknowledge your progress and assess your path forward.

Once you have written your learning objectives, you can insert them into the action plan you create in Section 4.

For more information on developing your skills, review sections 3 and 4 in Module 2: Trainee Role.

Learning Objective:

Given

I will

to the extent that

My performance regarding this objective will be evaluated by:

Learning Objective:

Given

I will

to the extent that

My performance regarding this objective will be evaluated by:

Learning Objective:

Given

I will

to the extent that

My performance regarding this objective will be evaluated by: